In view of the treaty just concluded between China and Brazil, some letters by the special correspondent of The Times from the latter country are important and interesting. In the second of these epistles, dated from Rio Jameiro, this correspondent treats more" especially on the composition of the population of the great South American Empire and the labour question there. With regard sion of European civilisation in the East. It to the first, be estimates the population at twelve millions, of whom four millions are set affection for European institutions. The comdown as Cancasians, or whites, two infilion as Africans, or negroes, 400,000 as tame American Indians, four millions of mixed blood. mulattoes or mestizes, and the remainder wild Indian tribes. This population is, however, distributed over a vast area, and only a small proportion of it can be induced to engagein field labour. The slaves, who are being gradually emancipated, number- 1,119,168, and it is stated that by the end of the present century slavery will be extinct. The planters believe that the negroes will for the most part desert the plantations as soon as they gain their liberty, for it is a well known fact that the vast majority of those who have been freed flock to the cities and look for work there. The Portuguese, who immigrate linto Brazilin large numbers, are also disinclined for manual labour, and there are at least thirteen out of the twenty provinces under Dom Peduo'srule the climate of which is unsuitable for white men to labour in In the southern provinces some very successful German colonies have been planted, been sorely disappointed, finding the country to which they were taken unsuitable and the climate too hot. Brazil, moreover. cannot compete successfully for the stream of Caucasian emigration on account of its distance from Europe, and the fact that there are so many new countries better adapted for Europeans as a place of residence. Brazil is blessed, The Times correspondent says, with an amount of agricultural and mining wealth almost inexhaustible, and it must be evident that the present or future well-being of the country resolves itself into a mere question of labour. That labour is to be obtainable from China, and the Brazilian Government has acted wisely in negotiating a treaty with the Government of Peking. We hope that after its ratification the Chinese Authorities will not interpose any frivolous objections to the emigration, as has been the case with other countries. They need not fear for the equitable treatment of the Chinese in Brazil. The country is li berally governed, under a most humane and enlightened mourch, and there are not the race prejudices in Brazil that exist more or less in all the Spanish republics of South America. The correspondent of The Times, however, is not in favour of Chinese being imported to Brazil. He says:-"Weary of looking for labour to the nations of Europe, Brazil is now laying her hopes on Asia; and a deputation has for some time been in China to see on what plan a migration of labourers could be organized in that Empire to people the waste lands of this. But, alas! commissions from other American States to the same country and on the same errand have long been at mitted. work; and, large as may be the supply, the Chinese hive can never yield its bees in num bers adequate to the demand. John Chinaman, besides, independently of some peculiarities of manners and morals which have made him obnoxious, is not to have a predilection for city life and sedentary employment. He is wilful and tricksy; resentful and treacherous upon provocation; and, when hard driven, he sets little value on other people's life or his own." The writer is considerably at fault here, it will be remarked. The Brazilian Embassy has completed its work | ultime. in Peking, and if the Chinese Government will only permit the emigration the supply of labour will not be meagre. It is true that girl sir years old, crying, and her clothes satu- This vessel will have a compound the Chinese abroad do evince a preference for rated with water. I asked the girl what was with 2 cylinders, the same now being a sedentary life in many cases, but then it must be borne in mind that the bulk of the said he had run into the cook-house. I went to reach 12 knots per hour. The armament emigrants in old times who were drafted off to Peru and Cuba were the scum of large cities, few of whom knew anything of agri- filthy language, and when I asked him why he foreand main maste; and lastly three 40-percentage culture, whilst many hated labour of any kind. What Brazil requires is a portion of the surplus hands in the agricultural districts of China, and we see no reason why she should not get them. There are plenty of really industrious Chinese agriculturists who would gladly go abroad to better their condition. That they would improve it by going to Brazil there can be little doubt, as the Government of that country are prepared to act liberally by them. The Times correspondent speaks of the Chinese, we imagine, only I from his experience of them in Peru and other South American countries, and, as we have stated above, little more than the refuse of Kwangthe old coolieships. The average Chinaman makes a quiet and law-abiding citizen, and any other section of its varied population. In any case, the experiment of utilising Chiwill prove satisfactory to both parties.

The Saigon Ere Nouvelle publishes the report f a meeting of the Municipal Council at which | Chang Hoi. the report of the Educational Committee was considered. The committee said they thought it right to call the attention of the Conneil to this circumstance as being a good augur for the miswas agreeable to see some Chinese assimilating themselves to European habits and evincing days' imprisonment, for being drunk and inmittee, in asking the Council to consider the matter, asked it also to lay down a general rule. For the Chinese to assimilate themselves completely with Europeans, it was necessary that they should demolish the barrier by which they have hitherto separated themselves from the west, which they call barbarous. If the applicant's nephew would out his quepe and dress in European clothes no doubt his request ought to be favourably received. On the question coming | charge was not proves, and was therefore disbefore the Council eleven voted for the refusal | charged.; of the application, and two only that it be referred back to the budget committee together with the question of school for Chinese.

LOSS OF THE SIAMESE SHIP "OANTON!

The steamship Esmoralda, Captain Talbot. from Holhow on the let inst. arrived here yesterday, bringing nine of the crew of the Siamese ship Canton, which had been wrecked in the South during the recent had weather. The Canton left here on the 14th ult. bound for Bangkok, and it may be presumed she was lost on her way to that port. Few particulars are known, as those saved are mostly Siamese, but they state that 36 lives were lost, including the captain' and mate. The mer saved describe the weather as very bad, a succession of violent squalls. dismosting the ship, which was soon on her beam ends, in a terrific sea and blinding rain; that the sea broke clean over her many times, and she went down ultimately head first. survivors state that they saved themselves by getting on one of the ship's tanks, after swimming about for some time supported by spars, hatches, and whatever they could lay hold upon. They were without food for several days, but eventually got on shore at a place called Aylum. and walked to Haiphong, whence they were forwarded to this port. The Conton was a vesse of 779 tons, chartered by Chinese, and commanded by Captain Knudsen.

Ledoulx, the French Consul, who took up he case warmly. The slaves have all been freed and placed in the French Mission Establishment at Bazamovo: the disposal of the dhow has been referred to the French Government. M Ledoulx is working most energetically to put an end to the system which has gone on so long of carrying slaves under the French flag, about which he is most indignant and he has already rrested four more dhows on suspicion. Ou the 4th August the news reached Zanzibar of the death of Captain Carter and Mr. Cadenhead, which threw a gloom over the whole resi-1911 European community, with whom Carter was a great favourite. He was, moreover, just the man for the work which he had undertaken. and his death will be an irreparable loss to the King of the Belgians. The sad event happened in the course of a native war which, it seems. Mirambo, joined by Sambo and others, has commenced in the interior, and which is likely to prove a long and very troublesome one. Its bject on Mirambo's part is to force all trade and caravans into his country, and to close all coads to the Lakes which do not traverse his lominious. One story is that he was bound for Karema, saying that he must have that elephant as he would not have people opening up the interior who did not pas through his country. The two natives who escaped and brought the ad tidings to Zanzibar give the following account the occurrence:-It appears that on the auproach of the war party to the village where Carter and Cadenhead were, the natives all fled. leaving the two Englishmen with 150 men armed with good guns. Mirambo himself was not present, but a day's journey off. Had he been there t is judged improbable that he would have allowed white men, with whom he had no quarrel, to be killed. Carter went out to most the natives with his people and baggage, and while attempting to talk to them and to explain that there was no cause for quarrel between them, a shot was fred, which unfortunately killed Cadenhead on the apot, whereupon the wretched 150 men threw down their arms and fled, leaving Carter with only a handful of men, among them his old servant Mahomed, who had been with him for years in the Persian Gulf, and who had come to join him on this expedition, and one of Dr. Kirk's servants. who had volunteered to go with him—fine fellows both of them, and both fell by the side of their master. On seeing Cadenhead fall and the men bolt, Captain Carter, it would seem, judging that the case was desperate, took up his repeating rifle and exclaimed, "I had no quarrel with you, but now that you have killed my friend I will avenge him." He fired, and killed 15. Then, seizing Cadenhead's rifle, he killed 15 more. The last that the two fugitives saw was Carter struck from behind. This is a very serious business, and makes the situation of the Belgians and especially of the missionaries now at Mirambo's very critical. The Sultan is doing all he can, and is taking decisive steps to asserts his authority and to check these outrages on travellers. In two days' time-Lieutenant Matthews starts with a large body of regular troops for Mowanwa, where he is to form military station, and this, it is to be hoped, will be the stepping-stone to further operations leading to his being able-to occupy and make safe for travellers those countries where they are now subject to outrage. INGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNI AND MANDARIN

PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Baily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have to late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given. the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size | Policies issued for long or short periods of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of ourrent rates. space, achieving a clearness not previously A discount of 20 %, allowed. attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charac- Policies issued for sums not; exceeding £5,000 terized Chinose publications.

Toillustrate the vest acope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration :---Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested Coast Steam Navigation Company .- Tls, in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

TENNYSON'S WIDE KNOWLEDGE. Tennyson's life has been governed by his fervent devotion to poetry; no knight of the chivalric ages was over so constant to his mistress. But he has been, to some extent, a poetic anchorite. His risions bave been. too long and lonely, his intellectual activity too closely restricted to a single form of expression. What poet of equal renown in all history has been so solely a poet as he? He a chance if he even finds a bell to ring; in has acquainted himself with all forms of knowledge-Thackeray once said to me. "Tennyson is the wisest man-I know"-and for the sake of poetry; yet; even as the anchorite confounds his natural aspiration with the spiritual effort born of his solitary brooding, so may the poet alloy his creative faculty by shutting himself alone with it. He may have written prose, but I do not know where fifty lines of it are to be found. Consequently his ideas and speculations on other subjects, which must crowd his mind uncomfortably at times, force their entrance into his verse; and, in spite of his artistic sense, not always with that peotic necessity which the reader instantly recognises. In "In Memorian" Le has justified himself with wonderful ability; with the exception The progress of our modern maidens, like of the single idyll of "Guinevere" and the her cruel blade between my left arm and that of the bad apprentice, is downward from brief poem of "Tithonus," he has written my side, and I fell to the ground as dead the first.
